

THE TARIFF LAW IS NOW IN FORCE

Took Effect at Midnight Last Night.

FINAL VOTE WAS TAKEN THIS AFTERNOON.

Gossip About Adjournment—President McKinley May Visit the Capitol For the Purpose of Signing the Bill As Soon As It Is Passed—House Waits For the Senate—Country Once More Under the System of "Protection to American Industries" Washington, July 24.—The Dingley tariff bill is now a law. It passed at 3 o'clock today, and took effect at midnight last night.

NELSON DINGLEY.

It is not known when congress will dissolve. Senator Harris of Kansas will attempt to secure a vote upon his Pacific railroad resolutions before final adjournment, and has the promise of Senator Allison of a quorum to consider them.

Then action must be taken upon the currency-commission message which the president will send to congress. A bill to carry into effect its suggestions can be speedily put through the house under a special rule, and be ready for the senate by the time the tariff bill is passed, provided the president submits his message about noon.

The opposition to a vote upon the conference agreement yesterday afternoon came principally from the Populists and silver Republicans, with some slight support from the Democratic members upon the filibustering motions, but most of the Democratic senators were anxious for a vote and cooperated with the Republicans to defeat the tactics for delay attempted by Senator Pettus of Alabama, with the approval if not at the suggestion of Senator Allen of Nebraska.

The feature of the senate debate on the conference report was Mr. Teller's speech. He spoke with great vigor and at considerable length, freely criticizing men, measures and affairs. He said he had not found a man in the senate who was satisfied with the pending bill except perhaps the Republican members of the finance committee, and certainly that was the limit of those who approved the measure. The bill was, he asserted, full of absurdities and inequalities, if not of crime. It was a vicious, unfair, extravagant and unsatisfactory bill.

Mr. Teller spoke sarcastically of the report that the President would recommend the creation of a currency commission. The American people were not yet ready to turn over the great monetary question to a commission or to the Indianapolis convention. He believed that the people themselves would settle that question, and settle it right, in 1900. The house and senate were commissioned by the people to legislate, and he intimated that the President was discourteous to congress to ask that it be taken out of their hands.

Mr. Allen (Neb.) reviewed what he called the remarkable things of this remarkable extra session. He spoke of the large campaign fund raised last fall and the influence it had in corrupting the vote of Ohio, Illinois and other states.

"On what ground does the senator make such an assertion?" asked Mr. Foraker.

"On the ground," Mr. Allen replied, "that if the vote of Ohio in 1896 was a fair and honest one, there is one voter for every two and a half or three of the population, and in the city of Cleveland almost the whole population were voters. The honest people of the United States believe it was a fraud, and I believe it was produced by money and other corrupting influences." Mr. Allen said the same was true of Illinois, where the vote of Chicago was swollen over 200,000 votes.

Reading from statistics Mr. Foraker said the vote of Ohio in 1896 was 1,002,726, while the population was about 4,000,000, or about one vote for every four persons. In Cleveland the statistics showed about one vote for every four persons. That ratio was about the average on a full vote.

House Waiting for the Senate. Washington, July 24.—The house Friday passed the bill passed by the senate to ratify the compact entered into between the states of South Dakota and Nebraska relative to the disputed boundary line. Mr. Dingley then stated that he had been informed that the senate might act on the tariff conference report that day, and moved for a recess until 5 o'clock. This was carried, and when the house resumed its session it took another recess till 8 o'clock. Upon reassembling, finding the senate had not acted on the tariff bill, the house adjourned until noon today.

Columbus, Ohio, July 24.—President Ratchford has issued a request to Chief Arthur, Chief Sargent, Master Workman Sovereign, Samuel Gompers, Chief Morrissey of the Trainmen, Chief Clark of the Conductors, Chief Powell of the Railway Telegraphers and all other national heads of labor organizations to meet him in conference at wheeling next Tuesday. He insists that the fight is of vital interest to organized labor, and admits that the situation is grave.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 24.—"Received your telegram. Cannot legally comply with the request," was the answer which P. M. Arthur, chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, sent to President Ratchford's message requesting Arthur's presence at a conference of labor leaders to be held at Wheeling.

Big Meeting of Operators.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 24.—Gen. John Little, chairman of the joint arbitration board, said last night the call for the meeting of operators of the Pittsburg district would at once be sent out. The meeting, he said, will be held on Tuesday, and the prospects of securing a concurrence of the operators on the uniformity question are bright. Appended to the call will be the names of W. P. De Armit, for the New York and Cleveland Gas-Coke Company; the M. A. Hanna interests, the F. L. Robbins interests, J. B. Herbe of the Ohio and Pennsylvania Company, and some others. A telegram to Col. W. P. Read asking him to join in the call had not at that time brought a reply.

Bald Wipes Out Old Scores.

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 24.—In the race for a purse of $1,000 at the state meet of the Michigan division, L. A. W., Friday afternoon Bald won first money, Kiser second, and Cooper third. Kiser won the first heat in 2:13, Cooper second, Bald third. Bald took the next two heats in 2:15 1/2 and 2:16, respectively, Cooper finishing second in each heat. The two-mile open professional event was won by Arthur Gardner of Chicago in 4:32. Harry L. Hart of this city won the mile amateur state championship in 2:33.

The five-mile open, amateur, was won by F. W. Peabody of Chicago. Time—12:10.

Killed by His Brother.

Bedford, Ind., July 24.—At the quiet little town of Dresden, ten miles west of here, Friday morning Butler Record, aged 24, shot and killed his brother Morton, aged 38. They are sons of George Record, ex-county auditor of Greene county, and the family is one of the best known in this section. The cause of the killing is not definitely known, but it is said there had been bad blood between the two brothers for some time, and although they occupied the same room and bed, they were not upon speaking terms. This, however, was not known to any one except the immediate family.

PANIC IN A THEATRE CAUSED BY A FIRE

DISASTER NARROWLY AVERTED AT PADUCAH, KY.

Many Persons Are Injured—Blaze Breaks out on the Stage and Spreads Rapidly to the Roof—Glucose Works at Peoria, Ill., Destroyed By Fire—Loss, $500,000

Paducah, Ky., July 24.—One hundred people were more or less severely burned Friday night as the result of a fire in a summer theater building.

Five hundred persons were in the house when the fire broke out, and the dread alarm was followed by a mad rush for safety. All succeeded in escaping without dangerous injury, although one-fifth of the number had their hands, face or arms burned. The fire occurred during the third act of "Streets of New York" at the Casino in Romona Park. It was caused by a lamp explosion on the stage, setting fire to the scenery. Almost instantaneously the building, which was an open wooden structure, was wrapped in flames, and it was soon burned to the ground.

A wire netting was stretched around the building, which prevented a speedy exit of the audience, and that awful loss of life did not result borders upon the miraculous.

One man in his eagerness to escape shoved a little child down under the feet of the panic-stricken people. A man who saw the act promptly knocked him down.

It was first reported that several children had perished, but this fortunately proved to be untrue.

HEAVY FIRE LOSS AT PEORIA.

The Grape Sugar Company's Plant Gone—Loss $500,000.

Peoria, Ill., July 24.—The main building of the Peoria Grape-Sugar company's plant was destroyed by fire Friday evening. The loss is $500,000, the total insurance carried being $460,000, of which nearly $300,000 was on the burned building and contents. Negotiations have been in progress for some time for the transfer of the company to the new glucose trust, but it is not known here whether the deal had progressed so far that the loss falls on the new combine or the original company.

The fire broke out at 7 o'clock in the sulphur-room, apparently with an explosion. The fire department worked promptly, but the explosion had filled the basement with flames, and nothing could check them. The immense eight-story building, 170 by 70 feet, was a mass of fire in five minutes and was completely destroyed, the walls soon falling in. It contained a great deal of very valuable machinery, the vacuum pans alone costing $75,000. The dry-storage house and warehouse across the railroad tracks were saved, or the loss would have been several hundred thousand dollars greater. The works employed 400 men and used 15,000 bushels of corn a day. They will be rebuilt as soon as possible.

Japanese Cabinet Accepts the Proposal of the Hawaiian Government.

Yokohama, July 24.—The Japanese cabinet has agreed to the proposal of the Hawaiian government to submit the questions at issue between the two governments to arbitration.

London, July 24.—The Paris correspondent of the Daily Mail says that Germany protested to the United States against the annexation of Hawaii by the latter country. Germany, the correspondent says, desired a triple control of the islands by America, Great Britain and herself. Chagrined at the result of her protest, Germany sounded Japan, but the latter declined to be a party to any concerted action, believing that the United States would respect the rights of Japanese emigrants in Hawaii.

Battle With Cattle Thieves.

Cheyenne, Wyo., July 24.—A band of outlaws known as the "hole-in-the-wall" band attacked the cowboys of the Cy and Ogallala cattle companies Thursday and attempted to prevent the rounding-up of the cattle around their rendezvous. In the fight which followed Foreman R. N. Devine and his son, Lee Devine, of the cowboys, were wounded, and Bob Smith, one of the leaders of the rustlers, was killed and Bob Taylor captured.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK IS NOW VERY GOOD

MARKED REVIVAL IN GENERAL TRADE PROMISED.

Fall Business Has Begun—Demand For Shipment of Supplies to the Klondike Gold Region Has a Good Effect—World's Wheat Crop—Failures For the Week.

"The widespread confidence that there will be a marked revival in general trade in the fall continues to grow, and with it material evidence that it is well founded. Chicago reports that fall business has begun, which is much earlier than usual. The distribution of general merchandise from St. Louis is a little less active, although trade there is favorable. Like reports are received from Pittsburg, Savannah, Omaha, Milwaukee, Duluth, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Galveston. Demand for supplies for shipment to the Klondike gold region has made July the busiest month in the commercial year at Seattle, and has had an influence on sales of staples at Tacoma, Portland and San Francisco.

"The world's wheat crop outlook continues to favor the United States much as it did eighteen years ago. The outlook is that Russia alone, of all other wheat exporters, will be able to compete with the United States. The advance is more than 20 cents a bushel compared with a year ago, in the face of a domestic wheat crop probably 100,000,000 bushels larger than last year.

"Unfavorable features include the continuance of the strike of bituminous coal miners in the Western and Southern states, which now begins to threaten the continued activity of industries dependent upon that variety of fuel, the practical stagnation of the Bessemer pig-iron and steel billet markets, the shutting down of New England cotton mill machinery, and the unsatisfactory condition of the woolen goods market.

"Failures for the week have been 227 in the United States, against 281 last year, and 28 in Canada, against 29 last year.

Maccabees Change Their Laws.

Port Huron, Mich., July 24.—The supreme tent, Knights of the Maccabees, Friday adopted a compromise for the proposition to re-rate all the members who joined the order prior to July 1, 1895, and are paying a lower rate than those admitted since that time. The amendment as adopted provides that these old members shall pay two assessments each year, in addition to the monthly call, to be levied in May and October, which will put them practically on an equality with the others, and all will participate alike in the emergency fund of the order. A proviso is added that old members who desire may surrender their certificate and be re-rated at the new rates, according to their age at date of admittance to the order.

Catholic Women Elect Officers.

Chicago, July 24.—Friday morning's session of the Ladies' Catholic Benevolent Association was taken up with electioneering, the election of the supreme president and the fixing of the salaries of the paid officers. The supreme president's salary was raised from $500 to $1,000 a year, that of the treasurer from $500 to $600, and the supreme recorder will now receive $1,800 per annum and clerk hire, in place of $1,500. Mrs. McGowan was re-elected supreme president. Miss Flanagan, of Syracuse, N. Y., was re-elected first vice president, and Mrs. A. J. Graham second vice president. Miss Mary McGuirk, of Brooklyn, kept her old place of treasurer.

Miller Sent to Honolulu.

Washington, July 24.—Orders were issued by the secretary of the navy Friday detaching Admiral Miller from duty with the Brooklyn July 27 and ordering him to take command of the Pacific station, leaving San Francisco for Honolulu Aug. 5. It is announced at the navy department that there will be no change in the policy of the navy with respect to Hawaii so long as existing conditions prevail, and that Admiral Miller's instructions contemplate only the maintenance of the status quo in the Hawaiian republic until the senate shall have acted on the treaty of annexation recently concluded between the governments of the United States and Hawaii.

Hawkins and Dixon Draw.

San Francisco, Cal., July 24.—Dal Hawkins, the clever California lad, fought George Dixon a draw Friday night at the Mechanics' pavilion. It was a good battle and the decision was satisfactory. It was not a spectacular battle, for there were only one or two rushes and never once what might be called a good, sharp rally.

NO MERCY IS SHOWN.

Weyler's Campaign Compared to Alva's in Holland.

London, July 24.—The correspondent of the Daily Chronicle in Sagua la Grande, province of Santa Clara, Cuba, writes to his paper a terrible account of the position of affairs in the island. Both the government troops and the insurgents, he says, are suffering horribly from famine and the ravages of small pox and yellow fever, while butcheries of prisoners after inquisitorial tortures are of daily occurrence if the victims be suspected of withholding information. Capt.-Gen. Weyler, the correspondent says, has shown neither mercy nor quarter, and has turned the campaign in Cuba into a near approach to that of the Duke of Alva in Holland in the sixteenth century.

Indianapolis Men to Appeal.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 24.—The patrons of the Citizens' Street railway company seem disposed to respect the decision of Judge Showalter in the 3-cent fare case. The decision has been reached that it would be impossible to enforce the law as held by the Supreme court of the state without bringing on rioting. The officers and employees of the company are enjoined from receiving other than a 5-cent fare, and upon reflection the citizens see no way for them to secure the lower fare at this time. Attorney-General Ketcham says the case will be appealed from the United States Circuit Court of Appeals immediately.

Houses Washed Away.

Youngstown, Ohio, July 24.—The storm which struck this city and vicinity at 7 o'clock Thursday night was very disastrous in its results. Carl Henry Mayer was struck by lightning and instantly killed, while his sweetheart, who stood near by, was badly shocked. The Mahoning river rose two feet in an hour and washed away several bridges. It is estimated that the loss in this city alone will approach $100,000. The storm was local, in many respects resembling a cloudburst, the people being given little warning.

Sensation at San Francisco.

San Francisco, Cal., July 24.—Dr. Donald McLean, dean of the California Medical college, was shot and seriously wounded on Van Ness avenue Friday afternoon by Patrick Walsh, a janitor. After running for several blocks Walsh put the pistol to his head and blew out his own brains. At the morgue it was found that he had written a statement to the effect that the doctor had deceived him and thereby driven the nails into his own coffin.

London, July 24.—Mr. James Francis Hogan, anti-Parnellite member for Middle Tipperary, has given notice that on Monday next he will ask Hon. George N. Curzon, under secretary for the foreign office, whether the provision of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, to the effect that neither Great Britain nor the United States shall annex Hawaii, is still recognized by both powers as of binding force.

Terrible Disaster at Sea.

London, July 24.—A dispatch from Singapore says that the Chinese steamer Srihenggann, bound from Singapore for Malacca, with 190 passengers, was wrecked in a squall off Malacca June 19. Paris, July 24.—The official report of the conditions of crops in France, as compiled up to July 15, shows as follows: "Wheat is 'good' in 27 departments; 'fair' in 37; 'passable' in 12 and 'middling' in 8. Spring wheat is 'very good' in two departments; 'good' in 16; 'fair' in 24; 'passable' in 7 and 'middling' in one.

Lose Ground in West Virginia.

Wheeling, W. Va., July 24.—The strike movement in the Kanawha valley and along the Norfolk and Western road seems paralyzed. All but one of the soft coal mines are working nearly full force and the strike in the state appears to be practically lost.

FOUR ARE KILLED AND SIX INJURED

A FATAL ACCIDENT NEAR BRIDGEPORT, CONN.

Bridgeport, Conn., July 24.—At 6:30 o'clock Friday night a terrible explosion occurred on the steamer Nutmeg State of the Bridgeport steamship line while she was lying at her slip at the foot of South street, and as a result four men are dead, three others are thought to be fatally injured and a number more are in a serious condition. The steamer was damaged about $1,000. The dead are: PATRICK MORAN, JERRY CONNERS, UNIDENTIFIED MAN. The injured: MICHAEL REARDON; internal injuries; not expected to live. HINSHAW IS INNOCENT.

Confession of Indiana Convict Implicates Two Robbers.

Indianapolis, July 24.—Noah Baney, a convict at the Michigan City state prison, has made a written confession which, if proved true, will have the effect of giving Rev. W. E. Hinshaw his liberty. Hinshaw was convicted two years ago and sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of his wife. The tragedy was enacted at Belleville, a few miles west of this city, and the trial of Hinshaw was one of the most sensational in the history of the state.

According to Baney, the real murderers of Mrs. Hinshaw are John Whitney and Guy Van Tassel, both Indianapolis men. Baney's statement recites the details of the crime as told him by Whitney and Van Tassel, who, he says, drove from Indianapolis to Belleville in his buggy. Baney says the purpose of the visit to the Hinshaw home was robbery, and that Mrs. Hinshaw was shot by Van Tassel, who wanted to frighten her back into the house while she and her husband were pursuing them into the yard.

Warden Harley said, when asked about the story: "I believe there is something in it, although I hear such stories every day."

For Currency Reform.

Washington, July 24.—Secretary of the Treasury Gage has sent letters to some thirty or more of the soundest business men in the country, including bankers who have knowledge of finance, and has requested their opinion upon certain propositions put out by him tentatively in the matter of currency reform. It is supposed that these letters have been cautiously referred to by some of those who received them and have been taken as indicating by the questions they have asked the tendency of the secretary. He has heard from some of the gentlemen he has addressed, and the disposition to help him is general.

Policy for Kansas to Be Fixed.

Pittsburg, Kas., July 24.—A convention of Kansas miners will be held here tonight to discuss the question of striking in sympathy with their eastern brethren. It is believed the delegates will be almost unanimously opposed to a strike at this time unless it should prove true, as charged, that the railroads are buying large quantities of western coal for shipment east, to be stored away in case the strike is prolonged. Railroad officials positively assert the charges are false.

Sultan Yields to the Powers.

Constantinople, July 24.—The ambassadors of the powers and Tewfik Pasha have agreed upon the frontier clause in the peace treaty. Fonke, Chicago, was elected president.

KNIGHTS MAY FIGHT THE CASE IN COURT

A FRATERNAL INSURANCE ORDER HAS TROUBLE.

Result of Creating a New Class of Members, Subject to a Higher Rate Causes Some Feeling—Knights of the Globe Form a Local Garrison.

Members of the order of the Knights of Honor in certain parts of the country are greatly exercised over eight special assessments levied by the supreme lodge, and in Ohio there is talk of going into the courts with the matter. The members in Wisconsin are affected by the assessments as much as those in other states, but there is very little complaint about them. It is generally understood that the money is needed to pay just claims, and as the rate of insurance in the order has been very low, most of the members are perfectly willing to pay the assessments. There are nearly 1,700 members of the order in the state and half of them reside in Milwaukee, but only a small proportion is affected by the action of the supreme lodge, since the assessments are levied against a class in which there are comparatively few Wisconsin people.

Lewis Silber Talks.

Lewis Silber, representative to the supreme lodge, who attended the meeting in St. Louis, held June 9 to 18, at which the action was taken, explains the situation clearly. "When the order was first established," he said, "the assessment was fixed at $1 on a $3,000 policy for members whose ages ranged from eighteen to forty-five years, and ran up to $4 for the oldest members. Some time ago it was discovered that the rate had been fixed too low and claims could not be paid if something were not done. At the Louisville meeting in 1896, a change was made and two classes were created. One known as class B, continued on the old plan, with no change in the rate and no limit on the number of assessments. Another known as class A, had a rate graduated according to ages, and it was fixed at an amount which the best actuaries in the country said would enable the order to pay all its losses with one assessment a month.

Special Assessments Necessary.

"The members rushed into class A and on June 1 it was found that there only remained 1300 members in class B. On account of the falling off in the membership of class B and of the number of old members the class did not yield a revenue sufficient to pay its losses and when the supreme lodge met it was found that the class was behind on 323 death losses. The matter was carefully considered for nearly a week and finally a resolution was unanimously adopted levying eight special assessments on the members of class B. At the same time class B was wiped out and all were put into class A, which seemed to be designated as a class. The assessments are to fall due on the first day of August, October and November of this year, February, April, May and July of next year.

But 1,200 Affected.

The assessments affect only 1,200 members in the entire country, and very few in Wisconsin. The Milwaukee members are all very willing to pay them, as they are aware that the rate was originally fixed too low. If class A had been established ten years ago the order would now have a big reserve fund. As it is the order is stronger than ever before. Every assessment now brings in $500,000, which is ample to pay all losses. The order is growing very fast, and we are getting in a young man for every old one who dies or drops out. The new members secured in the last year average only 35 years of age."

IT IS A VALID CORPORATION
Wisconsin State Agricultural Society Has a Legal Existence.

"The Wisconsin State Agricultural society is an incorporated body," said Attorney Lewis M. Ogden of Milwaukee, "despite the statement of a prominent attorney to the contrary. I have had occasion to look into the matter somewhat, and although the act of 1853 was repealed, as he stated, by the revision of 1858, not 1859, the same legislature of 1858 passed a law declaring the society to be duly incorporated under the laws of Wisconsin. "There seems to be no apparent reason why the law of 1853 incorporating the society should have been repealed and another passed at the same session which put the fair association on the same footing as it found it, but such is the fact. It was a sort of legislative freak, I suppose. Those things happen sometimes. "But even if the act of 1853 had been repealed and no further legislation had, in the present case, as I understand it, the state is the only debtor of the society and could alone raise the question as to its incorporation; thus, under the circumstances, it would be stopped from doing, as there are any number of instances in which the state has recognized the society as an incorporated body. It has made it appropriations time and again, and had dealings with it in various ways, and the theory of the law would be that as it had recognized it as a legal corporation it must be considered such so far as the state is considered.

The society, however, is a legally incorporated body, as I have said. It was incorporated by statute, chapter 5, laws of 1853. In the Revised Statutes of 1858 there is a general repealing clause, giving a list of acts repealed and the law of 1853 is included in this list. But chapter 80 of the Revised Statutes of 1858, in force now as section 1456 of the Revised Statutes of 1878, distinctly provides that the Wisconsin State Agricultural society is an incorporated body, and empowered to buy, sell and hold real estate, and do all other acts customary with such societies. This settles the question without a doubt."

The new tariff bill relating to the internal revenue portion prohibits the system of putting coupons in tobacco packages of any kind. The provision reads: "None of the packages of smoking tobacco and fine cut, chewing tobacco and cigarettes prescribed by law shall be permitted to have packed in, or attached to, or connected with them, any article or thing whatsoever, other than the manufacturers' wrappers and labels, the internal revenue stamp and the tobacco or cigarettes, respectively, put up therein, on which tax is required to be paid under the internal revenue laws; nor shall there be affixed to, or branded, stamped, marked, written, or printed upon said packages or their contents, any promise or offer of, or any order or certificate for, any gift, prize, premium, payment, or reward."

THE BOY GOT A HARD FALL

Johnnie Wilbur Tumbles From the Second Story of a Building

That Johnnie, the ten year old son of George Wilbur is alive today is owing entirely to a streak of good luck. Yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, while playing with several of his companions about the new Prospect avenue residence of James Burns, the Wilbur boy lost his footing while walking along the rafters on the second floor, and fell to the ground floor. Dr. W. H. Judd, who was called, found the boy to be painfully injured internally, and bleeding at the ears but no bones were broken.

MANY GO TO CHICAGO TODAY

Races Draw a Good Audience of Janeville People to Washington Park.

Today's races at Washington Park, Chicago, drew a good sized crowd from this city, and it is doubtful if in years there has been such a large gathering of local citizens at one time at a Chicago race track. The fact that no race will be held in this city this year had much to do with the attendance, while others went to see Hinbert Wilkes pace.

THE TOWN TALES OF A DAY.

Good Mrs. McDubbin is a pious old soul, Chock full of unreasoning zeal. She says that no girl of whom she has control shall ever be seen on a wheel. The "new woman" quite baffles her sight And bloomers are surely a curse. And rather than see her girl "biking," why she Would as soon see her ride in a hearse.

So her plump, pretty daughter can never go out In the star sprinkled dust and dew, With a manly young lover so noble and stout, On a bicycle built for two. But she has to stay in with a beau who's so thin That "knickers" and wheels he must shun, And with light turned real low the pair sway to and fro In a rocking chair built for one.

IT HAS NOT GONE TO PIECES

J. Rowland Jones, Jr., interviewed in regard to the Wisconsin Circuit.

J. Rowland Jones, Jr., chairman of the Wisconsin division, L. A. W., was seen in regard to the Wisconsin state circuit, alleged to have gone to pieces. He said:

"A great deal has been written in regard to the state circuit. A fine circuit had been outlined and most of the cities had planned to accept the dates, but upon later investigation it was found that it would be better to run the races in conjunction with the fair to be held later on in the year and the result was that the circuit which had been outlined could not be carried out and resulted in a new circuit with less towns. The circuit as now outlined includes all of the best cycle cities in Wisconsin. Nearly all have accepted their dates so that their is no doubt of it being a successful circuit, in fact more cities have applied and accepted dates than last year. The circuit this year starts at Oconto, when a two days meet will be held and will finish at Baraboo. A large number of professionals and amateurs have signified their attention of following the circuit. I have already been pledged this much. It will include the largest number of riders that ever followed a state circuit. The circuit as now arranged is as follows: Oconto, Aug. 13-14; Green Bay, Aug. 16-17; Neeshah, Aug. 19; De Pere, Aug. 23; Oshkosh, Aug. 25; Ripon, Aug. 26; Berlin, Aug. 27; Merrill, Aug. 28; Wausau, Aug. 30; Racine, September, 6; Waterloo, Sept. 8; Monroe, Sept. 9; Stoughton, Sept. 11; Chippewa Falls, Sept. 14; Lancaster, Sept. 16; Ellsworth, Sept. 22, 23, 24; Baraboo, Sept. 30. Any city that desires a date not taken can receive one by addressing the chairman of the racing board.

Who Can You Believe ? ? ? ? ?

Were you to read the catalogue of every piano manufacturer in the United States you would find that about all claim to make the finest piano, the cheapest often making the greatest claims and having the most gilt upon the covers of their catalogues. You ask who can we believe. False prophets have made confusion in other days than these, so beware.

A personal examination of the interior of the many pianos will convince you that the REED & SONS PIANO is the finest finished piano in the world. You will admit this as you look into the matter more closely.

No remedy has a better right to that title than Kickapoo Indian Oil. It is good for internal and external use, and it is pains' most powerful panacea. No one can say "I won't have neuralgia, rheumatism, carache or any other acute pain." But every one who knows there's a bottle of Kickapoo Indian Oil in the house can say: "I won't have neuralgia or any other pain long." The power of this oil over pain is the greatest marvel of modern medicine. It controls pain at once. It cures the cause promptly. There's no remedy reaches so many kinds of pain as Good Printing...

Is like good painting—it demands and obtains a second glance. The second glance leads to thought about and knowledge of the thing portrayed, and then on to the artist or advertiser.

The kind of printing as well as the kind of painting that it pays to do and to have done is that which obtains this "second glance." Plenty of the other kind!

We are PRINTERS. Our work obtains glances of admiration, and thus leads on to the end desired. We don't do the "other kind." Put our job room to the test.

its warehouse, the stocks of that trust, which would thus be able to pay large dividends during the ensuing year, naturally advanced. This is the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth about the advance in sugar-trust stock simultaneously with the action of the conference committee upon the bill. The new tariff will give to the trust a much less profit than it had under the Wilson law, the "differential" of $\frac{1}{2}$ of a cent per pound being in the opinion of experts nothing more than the absolute cost of refining, and of course it is only justice to that industry that it should be allowed to bring in unrefined sugar at a reduction equivalent to the mere cost of refining, for if they were not allowed of course the refined sugars would come in at a rate which would drive the refiners of the country out of existence.

When a man gets gold struck, nothing but privation and hardship will give him any relief, and only death or success can cure him. Much trouble will be avoided by having this in mind when dealing with those whose eyes are turned Alaska-wards by the current stories of fabulous gold discoveries.

Not a few newspaper veterans will envy Senator Hawley, who says his only connection with the press for many years has been to edit the dividends from the Hartford paper for which he is part owner.

Mr. Eugene Debs should be headed towards Alaska; he might be able to impress some of the men who are credited with having so much gold that they don't know what to do with it.

The report that Horace Boies, Mary Ellen Lease, Tom Watson and Dave Hill had formed a combination upon which a new party is to be built, lacks verification.

Mary Ellen Lease is modest in her aspirations. She only wants to be governor of Kansas, when she might just as well aspire to be president.

COMMON SENSE CURE.

Pyramid Pile Cure Cures Piles Permanently by Curing the Cause.

Remarkable Remedy Which Is Bringing Comfort to Thousands of Sufferers.

Probably half the people who see this article suffer from piles. It is one of the commonest diseases and one of the most obstinate. People have it for years and just because it is not immediately fatal they neglect it. Carelessness causes no end of suffering. Carelessness about so simple a thing as piles has often caused death. Hemorrhages occur from no apparent cause and loss of blood causes death. Hemorrhages occur during surgical treatment, often causing death.

Piles are simple in the beginning and easily cured. They can be cured even in the worst stages, without pain or loss of blood, quickly, surely and completely. There is only one remedy that will do it—Pyramid Pile Cure.

It allays the inflammation immediately, heals the irritated surface and with continued treatment reduces the swelling and puts the membranes into good, sound, healthy condition. The cure is thorough and permanent.

Here are some voluntary and unsolicited testimonials that we have lately received: Mrs. M. C. Hunkly, 601 Mississippi St., Indianapolis, Ind., says: "Have been a sufferer from the pain and annoyance of Piles for fifteen years, the Pyramid Pile Cure and Pyramid Pills gave me immediate relief and in a short time a complete cure."

Major Dean, of Columbus, Ohio, says: "I wish to add to the number of certificates as to the benefits derived from Pyramid Pile Cure. I suffered from Piles for forty years and from itching piles for twenty years and two boxes of the Pyramid Pile Cure has effectually cured me."

STRICKER IS SENT TO WAUPUN CELL

EDGERTON WHISKY THIEF IS SENTENCED.

Will Serve the State For Two Years and Three Months, As the Crime Was His Second Offense—Jack Hess Doesn't Want to Be Tried Here.

William Stricker, the Edgerton whisky thief, was before the municipal court this morning and pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary. When asked if he had anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced he remarked among other things: "Dis was only a liddle crime, how many years do I ged already?" At the same time he wiped his eyes industriously with a very large and very dirty handkerchief.

The court reminded him that it was a big crime, that of breaking into other people's business places, and that it would appear bigger still when the fact that he, Stricker, had spent a year at Waupun for a similar offense, was taken into consideration, and thereupon pronounced a sentence of two years and three months, the first two days of the term to be solitary confinement.

Hess Wants a Change.

Smooth, oily Jack Hess and his partner William Saunders were before the municipal court this morning, charged with burglary of a St. Paul freight car and two other counts which have to do with stolen goods. They fairly bristled with a determination to secure all their legal rights, of which no one appeared in the least anxious to deprive them.

They had failed in the interest of their appearance to hire an attorney, and asked the court to appoint one for them so that they could draw up an affidavit for a change of venue. After they had secured the change to some other county they wanted the first lawyer discharged and another, and non-resident secured. In fact there was very little they did not ask for except, perhaps, their liberty.

It was quite evident that Hess and his partner have no more love for Rock county than Rock county has for them. They made the allegation in many different ways that the newspapers had prejudiced the public against them. Again they refused to have anything to do with any Rock county lawyer or to stand trial in either the municipal or circuit court of Rock county.

Judge Phelps cut the Gordian knot by adjourning the case to next Wednesday, for the purpose of appointing an attorney to defend the prisoners, providing it be shown that at the time that they had not sufficient means for that purpose.

The "Morning Glory."

The officers of the city and county are convinced that they have been able to add to the classes of criminals a new variety. He is called the "morning glory," owing to the fact he always operates as a burglar at the break of day instead of in the night time. There is a great method in this precedence as the penalty is less. In this state the maximum is eight years in one case and but three years in the other. Day time is fixed by the state law at one hour before sunrise to one hour after sun set, all the rest of the twenty-four hours is night time. He shows intent, careful planning, and a knowledge of legal affairs and a familiarity with counsels, all of which tends to make the criminal a dangerous citizen. It is said that for many years this type of a criminal has been operating in England, and that the habit that is being taken up by local felons is imported from there. It will be recalled that Albert Baer made his entrance to E. J. Thiel's house in the day time and that Stricker who went up to Waupun today did his burglarizing by daylight. Certain of the officers claim that Baer was a member of the gang to which it is said Hess and Saunders belong.

Row on "The Midway."

All is now quiet on "the Midway," but a row that occurred day before yesterday will be aired on July 28. When Fred H. Hyer and his wife rented the residence at 159 South River street they supposed they had a perfect right to move into it. Wallace Tufts and his family have occupied the dwelling of late, and when Hyer and his wife went to the house they met with a reception that was anything but cordial. Hyer says that the Tufts chased him from the house and struck him over the head with a chair, cutting a deep gash in his scalp and bruising him so that it will be several days before he is entirely well.

Tufts says he was roughly handled by Mrs. Hyer, and that the woman struck him in the face with her hand, using him about the eyes, but Mrs. Hyer says she only did this when it seemed that her own husband was getting the worst of the fracas.

Two Tenants Meet

The drama took place at 12:30 o'clock, and the police placed Tufts under arrest, the complaining witness being Hyer, who charges the prisoner with assault and battery. F. A. Taylor, the well known carriage dealer, has the renting of the residence, which was formerly occupied by Mrs. Mary Kirk. Of late the house has been occupied by Tufts, and his family, but wishing to make a change in his tenants, Mr. Taylor notified Mr. Tufts to vacate, and at the same time notified Mr. Hyer to move in. Tufts, it seems, was in no hurry to move out, and as Hyer was equally anxious to move in, trouble came, when the two families came together.

THROWN IN A DITCH WHEN CRASH CAME

MRS. M. J. SULLIVAN AND CHILD'S CLOSE CALL.

The Alleged Careless Driving on the Part of Farmer Results in the Wrecking of a Buggy and Death of a Horse Last Night Although Passengers Escape Injury.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Sullivan and infant child, of 158 North High street, were thrown into a ravine three miles from this city last evening, by the overturning of their buggy, and narrowly escaped serious injury.

The horse then ran away, and in its mad race stumbled and fell, breaking its neck.

Careless driving on the part of a party of farmers who were returning home from this city, is said to be the cause of the accident.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Sullivan hired a horse and buggy of C. C. MacLean for the purpose of paying a visit to his mother who has been ill of late at her home in the town of Harmony. They made the trip without accident and started for home soon after dark.

About 10 o'clock, while they were descending a deep ravine on the Milwaukee road three miles from this city they noticed a two seated wagon drawn by a heavy team of horses coming down the hill in the opposite direction. The night was dark and it was hard to distinguish a team twenty feet away.

Met On Narrow Road.

At the bottom of the hill the road way is just wide enough to allow two vehicles to pass. It was here that the two rigs came together with a crash. In spite of the fact that Mr. Sullivan kept as far to the right as he dared to, the farmer's wagon struck the buggy with great violence throwing it into the ravine. Just how the occupants of the buggy escaped serious injury is more than even they can tell, but aside from a few bruises they were uninjured.

The horse then took fright and with the thills dragging after him, started on a run to this city followed by two farmers' dogs who were right at his heels. When near the city limits the frenzied animal fell doubling his head over and breaking its neck. The damage will amount to about $125, the horse being one of the most highly prized animals in the MacLean stable.

Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan and child were removed to the Higgins farm by the farmers who ran into them. They gave their name as Smith, and said they were driving home after attending the Second ward tent revival meeting.

MANY FIND VALUABLE PEARLS

Darlington Men Are Industiously Searching the River Bed.

Owing to the opening up of the Janesville "clam market" the pearling craze has been revived at Darlington, and during the past week hundreds of men and boys have been engaged with all their old time vigor in fishing for the festive clam. The bottom of the Peconic has been raked so often during the past few years, that it was thought by many that the pearl-bearing clam had long since ceased to dwell therein, but recent developments prove that clams are not only quite numerous, but that a greater number of those found contain the coveted pearl than heretofore. During the past ten days pearls valued at many thousands of dollars have been taken from the river. Among those who have been fortunate enough to secure a "pearl of great price" are Cal Martin, Will Kelly, Grover Knight, N. B. Lappin, Jim Riley, Jr., Mont Clary and James Dunbar. Judge Roach the "pearl king," is still there delving for the big clam, and he is the most successful pearl hunter along the river.

TO GIVE A REAL "PIG ROAST"

Novel Social Event To Occur Up the River—This Evening's Event.

Three pigs will be roasted. The steamer Columbia will convey the ladies to the park at 2 o'clock while the men will put in an appearance at five.

This evening, in honor of Mrs. F. J. Tucker of Chicago, and Frank W. Van Kirk, Capt. and Mrs. W. T. Van Kirk, will entertain about seventy couples at a picnic to take place at Crystal Springs park. A ride up the river on the steamer Columbia will precede the serving of luncheon.

CHILD'S ARMS ARE SCALDED

Painful Results Follow Fall Into a Pail of Hot Water

Medical aid was summoned from this city. The child's arms to its shoulders were burned so that the skin peeled off.

WAR IS DECLARED BY THE VETERANS

CONDEMN WRONGFUL WEARING G. A. R. PINS.

Law Was Read at a Meeting of the Post Held Last Evening; and It Is Said That the Old Soldiers Have Evidence Against Several Impostors.

War has been declared on the people who wrongfully wear Grand Army buttons.

There are many people in Janesville who would like to have the general public believe that they took a prominent part in the "late unpleasantness," and just as many here who did take a prominent part who are now ready to prosecute those who assume credit that does not belong to them.

Of late the G. A. R. buttons have become numerous about the country, and it would seem that the old soldiers were getting more numerous instead of less. Some one is imposing on the rights of the G. A. R. members in this section of the state, and if such a thing is possible, the guilty ones will be prosecuted.

At a meeting of W. H. Sargent Post No. 20, held last evening, the fraud against the men in blue was discussed. Commander Child called the meeting to order. W. J. McIntyre made a few remarks, and then, on motion of Post Commander C. J. Schottle, the law was read, as follows:

What the Law Provides.

Sec. 4423 Sanborn & Berryman's Annotated Statutes—Any person who shall wilfully wear any badge of the Grand Army of the Republic, or who shall use or wear the same to obtain aid or assistance thereby within this state, unless such person be entitled to use or wear the same under the rules and regulations of the department of Wisconsin Grand Army of the Republic, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail not more than thirty days, or by fine not exceeding twenty dollars, or by both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court.

A prominent member of the G. A. R. said today that the local Post was in possession of evidence of where a number of the citizens of the county were wearing G. A. R. buttons when they were not entitled to them, having never been to war.

W. J. C. McIntyre, the local adjutant said today that the only object he could see in people wearing the badges was to mislead people, and that the practice would be stopped.

PETER RICKET'S HERO.

By KATE JORDAN.

[Copyright, 1897, by the Author.]
CHAPTER I.

Broadway on a morning early in February, 1750. Young Peter Ricket, an actor in the theater on Nassau street, where he nightly appeared in "The Bean in the Sudds," started out for a walk. Even among the brilliantly plumaged throng passing up and down before Trinity church on that crisp February morning he was a conspicuous figure, for Peter was a fop, and a great many people considered him a fool because of his fancy for gay clothes. But they were wrong, as you will see.

He wore a cinnamon colored cloth coat quite to the knees, with moth eaten beaver four or five inches deep upon it, red breeches, dove colored hose, a red satin waistcoat which had once played a conspicuous part in "The Recruiting Officer," low buckled shoes, a hat of brown felt trimmed with a silver band, his perwig tied with a faded yellow ribbon. He poised a cane lightly in one hand; the other was thrust in his breeches pocket, and he had exactly 2s. 8d. in his purse.

Peter was of a romantic, volatile disposition. He loved the mysterious, the adventurous. In the quiet of his little room on Pearl street he had written a dozen unpublished romances, most of them founded on Captain Kidd's adventures, and he scribbled sentimental sonnets to a mistress who as yet was purely ideal. Humming a line from "The Beggar's Opera," he minced along, twirling his cane after the manner of the men about town and watching the scene about him with a lively interest.

The middle of the street was covered with hard, glittering snow, and Dutch market women flew over it on skates, baskets poised on their heads or strapped to their backs. He caught glimpses of sedate, puckered and powdered beauties in sedan chairs. Wealthy matrons brushed by him in green and gold brocade, hoop petticoats, powdered hair and cheeks touched with French red and pearl powder. Negroes direct from Abyssinia or Madagascar, some with the insignia branded upon cheeks and brows which told they were princes in their own land, followed these rustling dames, carrying their shawls and packages. Besides these there was a bewildering, cosmopolitan mixture of countrymen in homespun—Indian servants, the prisoners of war; solid, soberly attired Dutch "vrows;" soldiers, Huguenots, Jews, each in characteristic costume.

As Peter passed the new cemetery a young man approached, dressed in a queer, scallop hat and long cloak folded closely about him and followed by a tall Hindoo servant in native dress. Peter stood still as his eyes fell upon him. It was the stranger who had so fascinated him at the playhouse every night for the past fortnight. Who was he, this strangely attired, dark eyed man, wearing no wig and with close cut hair, white as the untrodden snow on the graves near by? He was undoubtedly young, despite his white hair and the unalterable sadness of his gaze, which was nevertheless eager as he looked searchingly into the face of every man who passed.

"I warrant me this man is of no common stamp," mused Peter, his imagination aglow. "His garb is strange, and there seems to be a history in his face. I would I knew him. I could not sleep last night for thinking of him. It may be he is a Jesuit in hiding." And he turned upon his heel and followed the pair, who by this time had passed him.

As they neared John street there was a sudden commotion among the crowd. Women shrieked, a few fainted, and a rush was made for the houses. Not far ahead a strange animal with foaming jaws and glistening teeth could be seen and behind it a shouting crowd. It was only a wildcat chased by a score of men and boys carrying spikes, muskets and bricks. It was nothing strange in those days for an occasional hungry bear or wildcat to leave the forests on the upper part of the island—that is, beyond the gates at Warren street—and make its appearance in the city, lean and ravenous for food.

In the excitement Peter lost sight of the interesting stranger. He espied the Hindoo in the same plight, looking wildly about him and pushing his way among the excited people so violently, indeed, that he toppled headlong against an apoplectic English grandee, who, before stepping into his chariot, was taking a pinch of snuff to quiet his nerves. Without a second's delay the grandee angrily turned and laid the Hindoo on his face on the pavement.

"Puh, puh! I'll teach you, you dog, to knock against a gentleman!" he shouted, with an oath.

Peter darted to the Hindoo's side as the chariot drove off and assisted him to rise.

"Nay, do not waste your curses on him," said Peter indignantly as he wiped the snow from the Hindoo's shoulders and replaced his turban. "My word, that man is a beast. Pray, let me assist you to walk, and together we will search for your master."

"You know him? You know my master?" he asked curiously in excellent English.

"By sight only. Ah, yonder he stands!" And Peter uncovered his head, not because it was at all necessary to do so, but because he could not help it when the stranger's deep, kind eyes rested on him. Never had he seen a man who so fascinated him. What was his subtle charm? And his voice as he thanked him for assisting his servant—in what way was it so different from any other voice he had ever heard? It stirred his heart. He felt his cheek flush, and when the stranger, with a smile which lit up his face like a burst of sunshine, held out his hand to him he could scarcely refrain from kissing it.

"Are not you a player?" asked the stranger. "Have I not seen you these many nights at the playhouse in Nassau street?"

"I am only a player, sir," said Peter modestly. "Truly you must be fond of the play to come so continually."

"Not so indeed," said the other, with an impatient sigh. "It may appear strange when I say I do not like the play, and I think it an ignoble occupation for a man to make fools laugh at so much a week. Each man to his taste."

"I am sorry," said Peter—and indeed he was—that they may not ask strangers behind the scenes, but so it is, for you might like to see how curiously dull is the seamy side of a player's life. But may we not meet again?" he asked impulsively.

Peter's subdued earnestness was more than flattering, and he was a handsome, sunny eyed lad in spite of his dandyism. After a moment's thought the stranger took his hand.

"Let it be so, young lad. Tomorrow, then, at 5 o'clock at the King's Arms," he said.

"Thank you, sir, and a very good morning to you," said Peter, with his best stage bow. He retraced his steps, very well pleased with himself and with the world in general.

"Success attends me," he thought. "Now will he turn out a hero? He is a proper man indeed, and with no common history, I'll be bound."

That night the stranger was again at the playhouse, and the next evening at the appointed time Peter walked up the street leading to the King's Arms, a coffee house patronized by the patrician class. He had taken particular pains with his toilet. His wig, neatly combed and curled, was tied with a new ribbon. He had also sewed fresh ruffles around the frayed edges of his sleeves and turned the silver hatband best side out.

It was quite dark, and the lanterns suspended from the houses were being lit along the narrow up hill streets. He quickened his steps as he neared the coffee house, for he saw the familiar figure in the long cloak and scallop hat standing in the gray moonlight, the white turbaned Hindoo erect and tireless by his side.

As they pushed open the two leaved door and entered, a cheery scene greeted them. Small, social looking tables and benches were scattered about the bare furnished room. A large fire of resinous logs burned in the tiled fireplace, throwing a dazzling light upon the sanded floor. Near it stood the glistening coffee and tea pots. Men were gathered in laughing groups about a bar in one corner, drinking ale from long mugs. Others sat reading or confidentially conversing at the different tables. One of his majesty's players near the fire was singing a catch, which a few of the merriest gentlemen appreciatively applauded.

"Hey, nonny no! Men are fools that wish to die. Is't not fine to dance and sing When the bells of death do ring? Is't not fine to swim in wine And turn upon the toe And sing, hey, nonny no, When the winds blow and the seas flow? Hey, nonny no!"

Passing slowly between the scattered groups, Peter noticed his new friend looking into the face of every man with the quiet, intent eagerness he had noticed before, and he wondered what it could mean. His gaze was too measured, too direct, to be accidental, and some of the men who encountered it lifted their brows, looked curiously after him and fell to whispering with one another.

"Let us sit in yonder dim corner and have a dish of coffee together," said the stranger, throwing back his long cloak and taking the seat which faced the door.

The Hindoo stood behind him, his arms folded on his breast and his somber, unreadable eyes fixed patiently ahead. Peter glanced at him once, and a cold feeling of apprehension stole over him. For whom was he waiting? For whom was his master looking? What was the secret they guarded in common?

"Now, I pray you, tell me your name. It is meet we should know something of each other," said the stranger.

"My name is Peter Ricket."

"And your age?" continued the other, looking dreamily at him as the serving man placed the coffee before them.

"I was 18 on last Twelfth Night."

"Do you never grow weary of a player's life?"

"In faith I do, sir. I would rather be a gentleman," said Peter laughingly.

"Well, and you can. I like you. I believe in you. I need a secretary on my estate, to which I return shortly. Come and be also my friend," said the stranger, laying his white, scholarly hand on Peter's and smiling into the lad's astonished face.

"Ah, sir," said Peter warmly, "I would desire it above all things, but my learning is small. I command a ridiculous penmanship."

"What matters that?" asked the stranger and then continued with a new earnestness: "Upon the stage your face and voice attracted me from the first. Something in your personality appeals to me powerfully. You are so glad, so young, so like what I once was. Your smile awakens memories of my own boyhood, when I, too, was happy. Say, isn't a bargain?"

"With all my heart," cried Peter, grasping his hand. "I am alone in the world. Oh, sir, if you need a friend, I truly need one. And to travel! Did you say indeed we were to travel?"

"Aye, indeed."

"And where?" leaning his elbows on the table and fastening his dancing eyes on the other's face. "To Paris? Ecce, I do so love the French!"

"Assuredly to Paris. And now let me tell you something of myself. I have had a curious life. Has any other man survived an experience like mine, I wonder? But of that later. My name is Richard Weyling. I am an Englishman, but up to eight years ago passed my life in India. My father went thither with the East India company, taking me with him when I was a child in arms."

To those who suffer pain the joy of relief is indescribable. Debility or nervous prostration causes all the inconveniences of pain, though not its sharpness. It is a later stage of disease. Woman's World.

Bathing costumes are now quite elaborate, following the fluctuations of the mode to a greater or less degree and recalling in their arrangement the numerous odd fancies seen in corsages. Ruffles, flounces and platings are employed as trimming, and the bodice of the suit closes at the side or is made with a yoke, large collar or dalmatic. Sometimes a bolero effect is obtained by narrow ruffles, galloon or white lace. Belts and corsets, tied or buttoned, add an element of novelty. A white ruffle encircling the round cut neck and passing down the side of the front in an irregular jabot is a pretty and becoming trimming.

TRAVELING GOWN.

Indeed white trimming and accessories are liked as well for bathing costumes as for other toilets.

Many pretty tailor made costumes are seen composed of white pique with a small floral or other design in color. Some new piques are seen in which squares or stripes are formed by threads of colored silk woven into the fabric, which is a novel combination. Cotton and silk are now frequently mixed, however, both as distinct materials and as one. Silk and linen are also mingled, but that is a less union than the other. Speaking of tailor made costumes, drap d'ete and other thin woolen cloths are made into very pretty ones, the favorite colors being gray, beige and mastic and the plastron being of a different tint.

Today's illustration shows a pretty traveling gown of suede cloth of a light weight. The skirt is open at each side of the tablier over a panel of plaid surah, the panel being crossed by brandebourgs of brown pascamenterie. The blouse bodice of suede cloth has revers of the same material, opening over a plastron of plaid surah, also crossed by brown brandebourgs. There is a wide collar of plaid surah. The bodice has a very short basque and is confined at the waist by a belt of tan kid. The plain sleeves are slightly bouffant, and the top ends have cuffs of plaid surah. A white linen collar and black necktie are worn. The hat of red fancy straw is trimmed with red tulle and peacock blue quills.

VARIOUS NOTES.

Summer Dresses For Children—Furniture In the Seaside Cottage.

White is more becoming to very little children than any color, no matter how delicate the latter may be, and, as a matter of fact, it is more useful also, as it sells very little more quickly than pink or blue and is as fresh as new every time it is washed, whereas colors always fade. A number of white frocks, not necessarily of fine goods or elaborately made, are the best outfit for any little child, for these little frocks are as easily washed and ironed as a handkerchief and may be frequently changed, so that the child is always neat and attractive. A simple, clean frock is infinitely to be preferred, in refinement and elegance, to an elaborate soiled one.

Painted, enameled and lacquered furniture is now enjoying a great vogue for seaside and country houses. Red, green and white, either pure white or ivory, are the favorite colors, although pink, blue and lavender are seen for bedroom furniture. It is necessary that there should be an abundance of cushions of various sizes and degrees of firmness—cushions of hair, down, feathers, excelsior or hay—according to the purpose for which they are intended. These are covered with denim, awning cloth, cretonne or silk, the wash goods being generally preferred because they are so easily freshened.

Today's illustration shows a bicycle costume of navy blue serge. The bloomers are very full, laid in large plaits and gathered in at the knee. The serge bolero, which is rather short, has revers and collar of white cloth stitched with navy blue silk and opens over a shirt waist of pale blue cambric. The cravat and belt are of navy blue satin. The sleeves are plain, and white linen collar and cuffs are worn. Black shoes and white gaiters accompany the costume; also a sailor hat of navy blue straw, with a band of white satin ribbon.

FASHIONABLE COLORS.

Gauze, Crepon and Lawn in Blue, Pink, Mauve and Green.

White takes first rank this year in fashionable favor. It is in the majority at all social functions. Next comes the combination of black and white, which is varied in a thousand ways. Very pale, soft gray is among the chosen tints also, and pale blue, mingled with white, the latter taking the form of embroidery, lace, mousseline de soie or other trimming or accessory. Mauve is a dominant color also and is seen in all shades and all materials, mousseline de soie, gauze, crepon, lawn, crepe de chine, foulard and taffeta. It is also employed frequently as a lining under transparent white goods, for more than ever as summer advances are sheer fabrics made over silk. Pink likewise furnishes a number of pretty and seasonable costumes, as does pale green. If these tints prevail, there is yet no lack of all the remaining ones, yellow and green being well represented.

CLOTH COSTUME.

Very heavy black net over water green, mauve, sky blue, rose or straw composes some very pretty costumes for those persons who do not care for pale colored gowns. The belt and the bows trimming the costume match the lining in tint.

Today's sketch illustrates an effective costume of laurel green cloth, the plain skirt being adorned above the hips by two horizontal bands of braid of a darker green. The bolero is covered by horizontal bands of the braid, which also adorn the top of the close sleeves. The medall collar and revers are covered with very narrow ruffles of cherry taffeta, the stock collar and the belt being of dark green velvet. The full cravat is of cream Irish point and the wrist frills of cherry taffeta. With this gown is worn a hat of laurel green straw, trimmed with cherry taffeta and a gold and paste buckle. Next the hair are placed very dark pansies.

BATHING COSTUMES.

French Models Compared With Our Own Attractive Styles.

France, which sets the fashion for the entire civilized world, is curiously behind-hand in the matter of bathing costumes, perhaps because bathing there is not a social function, as it seems to be in America. At all events, whatever frills and furbelows are added to the French bathing suits, their general form remains the same—that is, trousers reaching down half way between the knee and ankle and a brief skirtlet terminating midway between the knee and waist. The length of the trousers is probably consequent on the fact that no stockings are worn, and the abbreviation of the skirt is due to the length of the trousers. Altogether the effect is far less pleasing than our own costume, where the trousers come only to the knee and the skirt completely covers them. Of course bathing suits are always in two pieces, but it is a matter of choice whether the skirt and bodice shall be united or whether the bodice and trousers shall form one piece and the skirt be buttoned on at the belt. For persons at all active in the water the latter style is by far the best, as it is impossible for it to sag when it is wet and heavy.

BATHING COSTUME.

An illustration is given of a fashionable French bathing gown. It is of navy blue woolen goods and is trimmed with plaitings of white woolen. These plaitings finish the edge of the trousers, border the short skirt, extending up the front, and trim also the epaulet and revers. The latter opens over a plastron trimmed with horizontal rows of white braid. White braid also forms in three rows a heading for the plaitings everywhere except on the trousers. There is a blue sash tied behind.

Prof. Alexander Graham Bell is now busily engaged in perfecting an instrument which carries words on the rays of light. He has already succeeded in telephoning by this means for a single mile.

A medical contemporary mentions, on the authority of Dr. Alexander, that the planting of osiers on a large scale in northwestern India has been useful in stamping out malaria in a notoriously unhealthy valley covered with stagnant pools.

The geological fault of the Jordan-Arabah valley has a length of 270 miles or more from the Gulf of Akabah to the base of Hermon, and is undoubtedly much longer. Another great line of fracture is now reported from southern Afghanistan, where Capt. A. H. McMahon has traced a remarkable trench for 120 miles in a north-northeast and south-southwest direction, finding it to be clearly a fault line.

Glacial erosion is one of the most important methods of lake formation, and glacial deposition makes lakes on a smaller scale. A valley, having moraine material deposited at its lower end will, when the ice sheet has disappeared, become the site of a lake if a stream flows there. With a glacier flowing past the end of a valley, the lateral moraines piled up will likewise form dams and thus lakes.

An Ambitious Girl.

From the New Era, Greensburg, Ind.

This paper recently received information that the ten year old daughter of Mr. M. Rybolt, of Hartsville, Ind., had been cured of a severe illness. The case seemed more than an ordinary one, and consequently a special representative was sent to investigate.

The Rybolts are well-to-do farmers living about two miles southwest of Hartsville. When the reporter called Mr. and Mrs. Rybolt and their daughter in question, Louise, were at home, also the other three children. Louise is the oldest. She had been going to school for four years, and was formerly in very good health, but for the past year or more she has been ill.

A year ago the present winter it was noticed that she was breaking down in health. For a time the cause could not be ascertained, but it was finally decided that it was from over-study. It has always been the ambition of Louise to educate herself as soon as possible, for she was anxious to graduate from the common branches early, and to enter a college of music, which her parents promised she could do as soon as she should finish the common branches.

How many children by diligent study to achieve their ambitions are injuring their health. It was so in this case. The child studied hard all day and often far into the night, and had won the respect and admiration of her teacher and of all the school by her aptness, and rapid learning.

For some time Louise experienced an indisposition which she would not make known to her parents, for fear they would have her remain from school. Her headache soon became unendurable, and was noticed by her teacher. She had by this time grown pale and weak.

One day she became suddenly sick at school, and was taken home.

For several weeks she suffered from a fever, and the physicians could not rally her. A neighbor urged them to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, which they finally did with splendid results. Louise began getting up once, and by the time she had consumed ten boxes of the pills she was cured. "What you have written is true," said Mrs. Rybolt. "I don't think Louise would have recovered had it not been for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. She is in perfect health to-day, and able to re-enter school."

"We are using these pills in our family when we need medicine, and find that they do more good than doctors' medicines, and they are not nearly so expensive. I would be glad to recommend them to any one who is sick, and can especially recommend them in any case similar to Louise's."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People have an enormous sale, and from all quarters come in glowing reports of the excellent results following their use. An analysis proves that they contain in a condensed form all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of the grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexion, that tired feeling resulting from nervous prostration; all diseases resulting from vitiated humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic urticaria, etc. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities, and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. There are no ill effects following the use of this wonderful medicine, and it can be given to children with perfect safety.

These pills are manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., and are sold only in boxes bearing the firm's trade mark and wrapper, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and are never sold in bulk. They may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company. The price at which these pills are sold makes a course of treatment inexpensive as compared with other remedies.

"IT MAKES ME HUNGRY"

just to look at your store; everything is so nice and clean." We are proud of such words as those from our customers, and try to deserve them. Not a shelf in our store but is emptied once a week and carefully wiped --the shelf and everything on it. We began doing this so we could keep things looking nice and clean, but we find the arrangement a great help in keeping them nice and clean and fresh and tempting. Those words do add to the money value of things good to eat, don't they? But you will not find our prices any higher for the extra care we take. We get our advantage in the increase of trade.

HORSE SENSE

GEMS OF THOUGHT.

Life is a mission.—Mazzini.
 Today is a king in disguise.—Emerson.

Mirth and cheerfulness are but the due reward of innocence of life.—Sir Thomas More.

Happy the man who early learns the wide chasm that lies between his wishes and his powers.—Goethe.

It is no great matter to live lovingly with good natured and meek persons; but he that can do so with the froward and precise, he only hath true charity.—Jeremy Taylor.

Affectation in any part of our carriage is lighting up a candle to our defects, and never fails to make us be taken notice of, either as wanting sense or as wanting sincerity.—Locke.

Every life is a profession of faith and exercises an inevitable and silent propaganda. Every man is a beacon which entices a ship upon the rocks if it does not guide it into port.—Henri Frederic Amiel.

The damps of autumn sink into the leaves and prepare them for the necessity of their fall; and thus insensibly are we, as years close around us, detached from our tenacity of life by the gentle pressure of recorded sorrow.—Landor.

To live is to have justice, truth, reason, devotion, probity, sincerity, common sense, right and duty welded into the heart. To live is to know what one is worth—what one can do and should do. Life is conscience.—Victor Hugo.

I realize more and more that fame and notoriety can avail little in our situation; that love is the one essential thing, always welcome, outliving time and change, and going with us into the unguessed possibilities of death. There is nothing so sweet in the old Bible as the declaration that "God is love."—Whittier.

My hope for the human race is as bright as the morning star, for a glory is coming to man such as the most inspired tongues of prophets and of poets have never been able to describe. The gate of human opportunity is turning on its hinges, and the light is breaking through the chink; possibilities are opening, and human nature is pushing forward toward them.—Emerson.

A great character, founded on the living rock of principle, is, in fact, not a solitary phenomenon, to be at once perceived, limited and described. It is a dispensation of Providence, designed to have not merely an immediate, but a continuous, progressive, and never-ending agency. It survives the man who possessed it; survives his age—perhaps his country, his language.—Edward Everett.

A Record Breaking Wash Goods Sale...

All the season we have been telling you that Wash Goods were never cheaper, and it was a fact, for we made some very fortunate purchases, and were able to name some astonishingly low prices. Now prices have gone still lower, for mill agents and jobbers have been offering their remaining stock at half and third early season prices. As is usual when there is a good thing to be had, we got in on it; and today offer several remarkable Wash Goods. If you do not pay more than five cents a yard it will buy a dainty fabric which ordinarily retails at ten cents, and all other prices will obtain equally desirable values.

FIRST is twenty-five pieces "Lotus Lawns," all white grounds, with neat figures, (these are not short lengths, nor end of stock, but are fresh new goods in full pieces) all you want of them, per yard--3 cents.

SECOND--Dimities in stripes, figures, scroll patterns, &c; all the desirable colorings; fifty pieces to select from. All on the counters, per yard--5 cents.

THIRD--150 pieces of the season's choicest wash fabrics, that have been retailed at 12 1/2 and 15c. Organdies and dimities, light and dark grounds; many that you have not seen before this season. They are all, per yard--7 1/2 cents.

Don't Forget the Shirt Waists....

The great sale is still going on, and we are today showing more new Shirt Waists than you have seen in other stores at any time this season. The pick of the line at the town talk prices.....39 & 59c
